SMASH AND NABBED

Banged up: Luke Doyle was part of a gang who used sledgehammers to steal Rolex watches from Fraser Hart Deadlinepix KT68345

Bentall Centre jewellery store robber gets six years

by CHRISTINE FLEMING
cfleming@london.newsquest.co.uk

A member of a smash and grab robbery crew abandoned by his mates after they raided a jewellery shop with sledgehammers has been jailed.

Luke Doyle, 27, was one of four motorcycle riding robbers who drove into the Bentall Centre on Monday, June 25, at about 9.10am.

They smashed Fraser Hart's windows and stole 12 Rolex luxury watches.

Doyle was sentenced to six years and six months in prison on Tuesday after being abandoned at the crime scene by his robbery crew and caught red-handed with eight stolen Rolexes worth a total of £133,150.

Judge Recorder Aidan Christie, speaking at Doyle's sentencing at Kingston Crown Court, said the robbery was violent and clearly planned.

He said: "This was a horrifying incident that must have been terrifying for staff in the shop as well as anyone passing by.

"This was a violent and highly planned robbery carried out with ruthless determination causing terror to all who witnessed it."

Doyle of Cleveland Road, Islington, who pleaded guilty to the robbery, was the only one caught after he was unable to get on the back of an escaping motorbike. Four of the missing Rolexes, said to be worth £42,850, are still missing.

Prosecutor Michael Bisgrove said: "Just after 9am two motorbikes both with a rider and pillion passenger rode in straight up the window of Fraser Hart.

"They ran towards the display window and using sledgehammers attacked the outside window in precisely the area where the Rolex watches were on display."

Doyle claimed he had to pay off an £8,000 gambling debt.

Khurram Araf, defending, said: "The store was targeted when the shop was closed and there were not many [people] about, no one was threatened and no violence was used towards anyone at all."

But Recorder Christie said there were seven aggravating factors including the fact it was planned, that it was part of a gang raid, and that there were sledgehammers involved, before jailing Doyle.

Witnesses should call 020 8247 4804 or 0800 555 111, anonymously.

Couple help Haiti's first Paralympic athlete

A Surbiton couple have fulfilled their dream of seeing Haiti's first competing athlete at the Paralympic Games, writes Natasha Bowler.

Leon Gaisli, who was paralysed during the January 2010 earthquake in Haiti, and lost family members, competed in the handcycling event.

Carwyn Hill and his wife Reninca founded the Haiti Hospital Appeal in 2006, which provided the vital health care he needed after the disaster.

Mr Gaisli spent the first year at the hospital receiving medical treatment after the natural disaster and then 18 months in sport rehabilitation.

Mr Hill said: "Our rehabilitation centre has especially focused on sport recently.

"We have sponsored Leon's training for the past two years.

"We are so proud of him. He has finally reached his dream and we wish him the best."

The couple spend 30 per cent of their time at their house in Ewell Road, Surbiton, and the rest at the charity in Haiti.

Set to shine another day?

Kingston and Surbiton's MP has claimed victory in the battle to keep the Sunshine children's ward at Kingston Hospital open.

The ward was set to be shut by the Better Services Better Value (BSBV) review, which aims to improve services and save money.

MP Edward Davey said he believed the ward had been saved and the recommendations to maintain children's assessment and short-term treatment wards in Kingston represented a public victory.

He said: "Sunshine ward is saved. Some children who are very sick, as happens now, will go to a new centralised ward but the vast majority will stay local."

But health union Unison said the ward's future was still at risk because recommendations also proposed creating a specialist children's centre at St George's Hospital, Tooting, a move it believed could undermine remaining children's healthcare units elsewhere.

Saved? MP Edward Davey and Lib Dem councillor Rebekah Moll outside Kingston Hospital

Recommendations due to go before the joint boards of south-west London primary care trusts on September 27, as part of the BSBV cross-borough hospital review, favour an option where specialist paediatric staff are based in Tooting but urgent health care is provided in patients' home boroughs.

Dr Howard Freeman, GP and joint medical director for BSBV, said children's wards would remain at Kingston for children needing assessment and short-term treatment.

He said: "The vast majority of children in south-west London will be seen, treated and cared for on these short-stay wards at their local hospital.

"Those children who are sicker or need specialist care or a longer inpatient stay will be cared for at a centralised inpatient ward at St George's Hospital where specialised services are available."

Unison urged caution over proposals and said it meant a chipping away of services that could diminish the future of Kingston's children's medical services.

Michael Walker, regional officer for Kingston, said: "I would be concerned about the future requirement for paediatric nurses and specialist doctors.

"If they are moving the specialised service to St George's, by its very nature it is going to reduce the number of doctors and nurses and that cannot be good for the service.

"It is yet another service that will be downgraded and that is chipping away at the long-term viability of the ward and Kingston Hospital."

Campaign group Kingston Health Alert said it was better for children with chronic illnesses, needing longer hospital stays, to be treated nearer home.

Kingston's Labour Party leader Laurie South said he did not believe the recommendations were a good thing for any of the hospitals involved.

He said: "Finding out who is telling the truth is difficult, I suspect everyone is trying to put their spin on it.

"I think [Sunshine ward's future] is still a concern because there will be an awful lot of people who really cannot afford to see their children at a long distance they will need to keep them close."

New trial date set

A new trial date has been set for a husband accused of murdering his partner in their Kingston home.

Muhammad Asad Niazi, 28, denied murdering his 37-year-old partner Charito "Che" Cruz, a Filipino carer and mother of one, after she was found dead at their ground floor rooms in Cambridge Road on September 29 last year.

A previous trial in June was halted after five days and the jury discharged.

The Old Bailey trial is due to start on December 3.

CLARE BUCHANAN reports on the opening of Surbiton's £11.5m Lime Tree Primary School

Excitement as new school opens up

New school: Lime Tree Primary; The sensory room, below Deadlinepix KT69957

Children have completed their first week at a new school with a roof-top playground, iPads for pupils and a "chill-out" sensory room.

Lime Tree Primary School in Surbiton cost £11.5m and has a motto of healthy body, brain and heart – perfect considering it shares the grounds of Surbiton Hospital.

Parent governor Alan Gardner said when he met the new head-teacher he knew he had made the right choice for his daughter.

He said: "I am really excited. I think when we were putting down our choices you look at the school and think 'OK I am putting down for somewhere that's opening anew', there was that anxiety.

"But once it was clear it would be opening and we got those assurances, it was a clear cut choice for us."

And fellow parent governor Katrina Butler said: "People were nervous at the start. Otherwise most parents were excited about a new school.

"You have got new equipment. Everything is new and designed to be how a school really should be."

The school is the first in the borough for 15 years and opened last Thursday morning.

Children will use new interactive white boards as well as the latest Apple products and IT equipment including iPods, iPads and MacBooks.

They will also be taught how to use video and photography with their clips uploaded on to the school website to support learning at home.

The school has room for 21 special educational needs pupils and has disabled access, an autism unit and sensory room.

Lime Tree's new headteacher Clinton Pascoe said: "When you are on a restricted site you really have to make use of every space available. You can get the kids quite active in what they are doing rather than being restricted by furniture in the classrooms."

Some neighbours, however, were still not happy the school had been built on the "cramped" site.

Graham Goldspring, of the Oakhill and District Residents' Association, said: "Now the school is there, there is not much we can do. Our association has always questioned the wisdom of building a school next to a health centre in that particular area."

Fern Hill Primary was the last new school in the borough and opened in 1997.

Ellingham Primary and Chessington Community College were both expanded when they were rebuilt.

Bionic arm op 'could give me my life back'

by NAZIA DEWJI
ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

A trainee accountant is aiming to become the first woman in Europe to have a bionic arm fitted.

Nicky Wilding, 35, who works at travelling company Tui UK, in Surbiton, lost the use of her right arm in a car crash 13 years ago.

The accident left her arm totally paralysed and she has since struggled with everyday tasks such as dressing herself and cooking.

She now wants her right arm cut off and replaced with a bionic arm.

The mother-of-one, who lives in Purley, is determined to raise £40,000 for the bionic arm she hopes will get her life back.

She said: "There are not many women who want their arm cut off but it is what I want. I want it so badly."

If she is able to raise the money and the procedure is regarded as suitable for her, Miss Wilding will have the operation in Vienna and become the second woman in the world to have a bionic arm.

A bionic arm combines robotics, biotechnology, and electronics to recreate the functions of a human arm and can greatly improve the lives of people with lost limbs.

The first woman in the world to get a bionic arm was former US Marine Claudia Mitchell in 2006.

Looking forward: Nicola Wilding. Doctor Oskar Aszmann, who is based in Vienna, would attach the new arm, inset BT70066

Miss Wilding said: "There are always risks but I do not have anything to lose. It will improve my life. I would do anything to open a bottle again or tie my shoe laces.

Colleagues at Tui UK held a fundraiser at the Queen's Head pub in Richmond Road, Kingston, on September 8. Money was also raised for Cancer Research as another colleague at the company, Claudia Jeyakumaran, is battling breast cancer.

Fellow fundraiser and colleague Kim Vallance said: "These people are very important to me. I am proud of what they are trying to achieve. I wanted to help and thought we know enough people to turn this into a charity event. I hope it is the first of many."

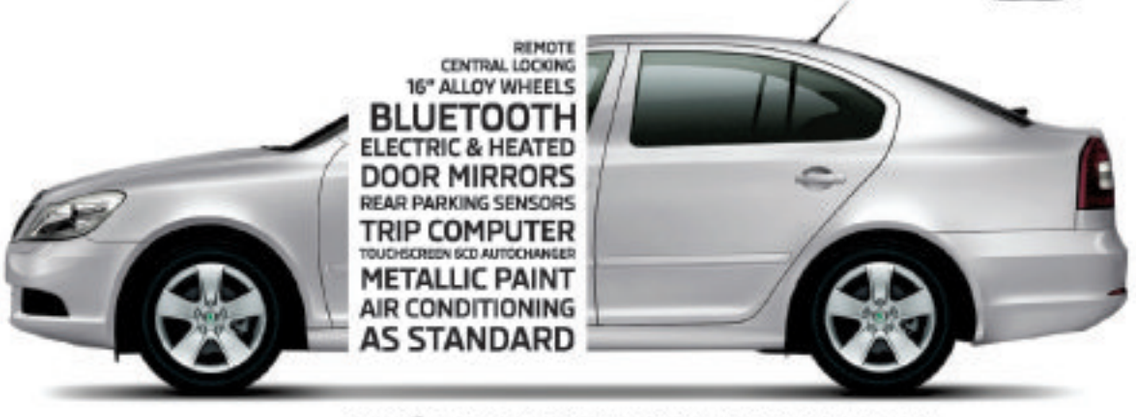

Miss Wilding said: "I am really blessed people want to help. It just goes to show who is there. I have even had strangers donating."

Miss Wilding who has raised £8,000 will be participating in her second triathlon at Dorney Lake on Saturday, September 15.

Police name six more 'most wanted'

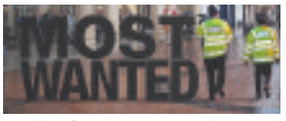

A man who allegedly sexually assaulted a woman on a bus and a lettings agent who has been hunted for more than a year are among this month's most wanted.

We are publishing their faces to help Kingston police track them down.

This month, police want to speak to five men and one woman who they have either not been able to track down or who have failed to show up in court.

Robert Frederick Streeter, 25, from Sunbury is wanted on suspicion of shoplifting after he was accused of stealing £145 worth of clothing from Bentalls in Kingston on August 2.

Police are also looking for Jason Dominic Wright, 42, from Kingston, after he failed to appear at South Western Magistrates' Court to face a charge of common assault.

John Morgan, 42, from Kingston also failed to appear at South Western Magistrates' Court to face a charge of driving while disqualified.

Kaci Mohamed, 26, of an unknown address, is wanted after it was alleged he sexually touched a woman without her consent on the number 65 bus on June 16, 2010.

And police are continuing their hunt for New Malden lettings agent Myung Hee Hardy, also known as Jin, 56.

She appeared with tears streaming down her face in the first edition of this paper's most wanted and again when police launched an international version of the feature in April and believed she may be in South Korea.

Mrs Hardy is suspected of dishonestly abusing her position as the manager of New Malden letting Agency, Jins Lettings, and taking deposits held on behalf of landlords for her own financial use, between July 2009 and May 2011.

Patrick McInerney, 26, of an unknown address, is wanted after he failed to appear at Wimbledon Magistrates' Court charged with common assault and possession of cannabis.

Wacky racers hit town

Dozens of cyclists will be whizzing through the streets in Edwardian and Victorian gear, some on penny farthings, this weekend.

The vintage bikers will be part of a Trycyclingathon aiming to raise money for charity.

The wacky sporting event organised by Homage De Fromage, will pass some of the borough's most idyllic and historical spots on Sunday, September 16.

Organiser Robin Hutchinson said: "We were all sitting around thinking about how fun it would be to dress up and we just went with it.

"People have come up with all sorts of outfits – Edwardian, Victorian, Steampunk – you name it.

"This is a great opportunity for the community to get together. We were really inspired by the cycle races in the borough so this Trycyclingathon will be great. It will be funny to see people's reactions when all these cyclists in vintage outfits go past them – they will be like 'What's going on here?'"

by NAZIA DEWJI
ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

For the less eccentric there are two other cycle rides on the day.

A family ride will take in the borough's parks and riverbanks, while a more experienced 44-mile route will go along some of the Olympic cycle route through Surrey's beautiful countryside.

Each race will begin and finish at Claremont Gardens in Surbiton where there will also be entertainment by bands between 12.30pm and 4pm.

Money raised from the Seething Trycyclingathon will be donated to the mayor's charities, Kingston Carers' Network, Yorda Adventures and the Community Brain.

Brett Wainwright is a former police cadet from Box Hill who became paralysed from the chest down after a road traffic accident more than 20 years ago.

He has since taken part in a 250-mile cycle ride in Kenya raising more than £7,000 and has regularly championed sports for disabled people.

He will be participating in the 10-mile family Trycyclingathon in Kingston.

Mr Wainwright said: "Taking part in numerous events has helped me to focus on what I can achieve rather than look at the things I am unable to do."

The 44-mile experienced ride begins at 10am and finishes at 1pm.

The 10-mile family ride starts at 11.30am and finishes at 1pm. The five-mile vintage ride begins at 11.45am and finishes at about 1.15pm.

Happy days: The Dragon boat racers battled it out on the Thames KT69964

Dragon boat races bathed in sunshine

by NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

Last time the dragon boat race was a wash-out but this time was a scorcher, especially for the racers who dressed as Olympic opening ceremony sheep.

River boat racers donned Olympic gear and battled it out on the Thames on Sunday.

The racers were finally able to compete after heavy rain cancelled the annual event in July.

This time around racers, friends, family and spectators enjoyed the racing event in Canbury Gardens without a cloud in sight.

More than 40 teams and nearly 800 rowers rowed their hearts out in the river races organised by Kingston Rotary Club.

In line with Olympic sporting fever, team Lamb-Baah-Ghini dressed as sheep in attempt to evoke Danny Boyle's idyllic Olympic opening ceremony and took home the best dressed prize.

Eight teams oared their way into an incredibly close final with only four seconds between the last dragon and winners the Canbury Arms Boys. The London Welsh Dragons managed to take second place and the Mighty Ducks came in third.

Keith Maund, chairman of Kingston Rotary Club, said: "People were out in their thousands to watch and everyone was having a fantastic time. The weather was superb too.

"The final was so close."

Rugby legend and TV personality Matt Dawson captained a boat on behalf of the Beating Bowel Cancer charity.

Last year the Dragon Boat Races raised £45,000 for charity but this year the sum is expected to be even more.

There were also children's fairground rides, refreshments and craft stalls alongside a bouncy castle at Canbury Gardens.

Feathers float off from circus

A central London circus that left visitors knee-deep in feathers has managed to leave its mark in Kingston.

Nearly two tonnes of feathers were dropped in a special performance spectacle in Piccadilly Circus last Sunday.

But the next morning a number of Twitter users in the borough tweeted about mass feathers having somehow got to Norbiton and Surbiton.

Fun: Feather festival

Twitter user Rebecca tweeted: "Not fully sure why, but there are feathers everywhere in Norbiton this morning"

Sarah tweeted: "So so many feathers in Victoria Road."

An estimated 50,000 spectators watched the circus presented by Mayor Boris Johnson. The show was part of the London 2012 Festival and included performances from 247 artists.

International Youth Arts Festival performers who brightened up Kingston in July were among them.

£100k price tag for fixing street lighting

by CHRISTINE FLEMING

cfleming@london.newsquest.co.uk

Problems with the street lights in Canbury Park Gardens could cost as much as £100,000 to fix.

The shocking figure was revealed following complaints by a cyclist who said the lack of lighting in the park – because of a broken lighting system – was a safety concern.

Dominik Lemanski, 34, of Albany Mews, was told by his safer neighbourhood team, by email, of the hefty price tag associated with fixing the lighting problem.

Kingston Council confirmed fixing the lighting was expected to cost in the region of £100,000 because there was a fault with the wiring and replacement of the whole system was being considered.

An email to Mr Lemanski from Kingston police said it was believed the whole system needed to be changed because it was old, inadequate and did not enable individual repairs to be carried out.

Mr Lemanski said the situation was ridiculous.

He said: "You go there at night and go under Kingston Bridge and hit the park and it is pitch black.

Needs fixing: Street lights in Canbury Park Gardens KT70148

"That is a walkway from Kingston station up to north Kingston and someone will get attacked, robbed or worse in that park. It is dangerous.

"It needs to spend some money and sort this problem out."

Kingston Council apologised for the inconvenience and said lights installed in the canopy of trees had been out of action because when there was a fault in one part of the above ground wiring it affected the whole 510m length.

A council spokesman said: "Identifying where the fault lies along this stretch is very problematic.

"Under this system there is no way of isolating the fault.

"We are exploring options for the replacement of this lighting system with individual columns.

"We have calculated that 27 columns would be required on this stretch.

"We have spent a considerable amount of time looking to identify the fault and design a replacement scheme.

"Funding is a major limiting factor, and a bid for external funding to replace the lighting as part of wider improvements to the gardens was unsuccessful last year, although we have resubmitted the bid again this year."

Councillors David Cunningham and Dennis Doe said a proposal to get new lighting in the park had been included in a heritage lottery bid to pay for enhancement work at the gardens.

Hostage-taker caught after two-week search

by CLARE BUCHANAN
cbuchanan@london.newsquest.co.uk

Police have arrested a violent man they had been hunting for more than two weeks.

Shaun Bedward disappeared last month, breaching the conditions of his release from prison.

The 48-year-old was jailed after attacking a terrified woman and holding her hostage in a wood and was sentenced to 18 months behind bars for false imprisonment at Kingston Crown Court in March.

Bedward lured a woman he befriended down a dark country lane after telling her he wanted to give her money, old medals and poems.

He had been living in a tent in Chessington woods.

But when she became scared Bedward began shouting and grabbed his victim by the wrists, pushed her to the ground and held her down with his body during the incident in November last year.

She escaped and police used CS gas to capture Bedward, who was sitting on a bridge near the A3.

Event in memory of 'fun-loving' Emma

A father is holding a fundraising event for his daughter's legacy after she died days after her 16th birthday.

Mark Brandon and his wife, from Kingston, set up Emma's Bubble Trust in memory of – and as a tribute to – their daughter Emma, who died from breast cancer in 2007.

The trust's mission is to help teenagers affected by cancer and their families and friends and has raised more than £100,000.

Mr Brandon said during her treatment at the Royal Marsden in Sutton, Emma was struck by how teenagers were caught between adulthood and childhood and felt she could do something about it.

He said: "She always said when she got better she would help others in her situation. It has been an inspirational experience. There's no doubt about that.

"Obviously it comes from a huge tragedy. It has been a healing mechanism for all involved."

Mr Brandon, 52, said Emma, affectionately known as Bubble, was a fun-loving, bright and much-loved teenager.

He said: "She had a fantastic group of friends who speak so highly of her. She was just one of those people that everyone got on with.

"She would be utterly amazed at the things people have said about her. They are the most heart-wrenching statements."

A fashion show for the charity is being held at Cuddington County Community School, in Worcester Park, today, September 13.

Gala could display art

Would it be feasible to convert the old Gala bingo hall into an art gallery?

It makes sense to me as Kingston University seems to concentrate on the arts. It would provide the artists with a showcase on a wider scale, as well as attracting larger artists to the area which would provide inspiration to artists in the area.

It would also put Kingston on the map in art, as the Rose did for theatre.

The larger rooms could easily be used for installations (a la the turbine room at the Tate) and the smaller rooms kept for smaller or up and coming artists.

This would also remove fears of antisocial behaviour if the building was converted into a music venue (something I was against because of inadequate parking/transport links and the very basic fact of there being no space to queue). In fact it may well give youngsters a creative gateway that otherwise could be lost and transferred into boredom/behavioural problems in the future (arts in occupational therapy is something I have seen work wonders).

Our primary school has an ethos built around inclusion

I was disappointed reading the story English is second tongue for 30% of school pupils (Kingston Guardian, September 6).

I felt the story misrepresented my views on the issue and did not reflect the statement I had provided on request by your newspaper.

In the paragraph that led into the quote you have taken from my statement, you attributed words to me that I would never use.

St Joseph's, its staff, governors and myself do not consider integrating pupils with English as an additional language as something negative that has been forced upon us.

On the contrary, St Joseph's is a school whose ethos is built around inclusion.

The whole school curriculum provision, systems, staff expertise and specialism support the success of our inclusive teaching strategies.

This benefits all of our pupils and is something of which we are very proud.

This was confirmed by Ofsted in 2010, which said: "The school's data, pupils' current work and their learning in lessons confirm pupils of all abilities and ethnic backgrounds are making good progress."

The many languages and cultures in school enrich the learning of all St Joseph's children.

We achieved the British Council International school award in 2009 in recognition of our work in this area, offering an enriched curriculum that reflects local, national and international dimensions.

Our 2010 Ofsted inspection confirms this: "The school makes a good contribution to community cohesion. The school itself is a very harmonious community."

I would appreciate it if you publish this letter, which corrects your misrepresentation of me and accurately presents the positive position St Joseph's and I take on this.

Headteacher of St Joseph's Primary School

Council is working hard with businesses

I am writing to correct an article you published (Traders join forces to encourage shoppers, September 6).

You quote a trader as saying "the council does not seem to realise the amount of rent it is charging is crippling businesses".

In fact Kingston Council does not charge any businesses rent along the Hook parade as it is not the landlord.

Kingston Council is working hard with businesses and the Kingston Chamber of Commerce to promote Hook parade and its businesses.

We led the initiative to create a Hook Parade-based business community following on from those we have already created in Surbiton and New Malden.

We are, therefore, very keen to support any development that brings greater prosperity to local businesses and enriches borough residents' lives.

It was disappointing to see this article's inaccuracy, which speaks little of the good work we are doing with others and creates the impression that we do not care when clearly we do.

Any businesses in the Hook Parade, Ace Parade and North Parade areas (or other areas of the borough) that are interested in taking part in a business community should email business@rbk.kingston.gov.uk.

Platforms for funding rail revamp

Could significant funds to adapt former Eurostar platforms at Waterloo for domestic services not be generated by building above the platforms and approach tracks while out of use?

Capacity on the South West Trains main lines could be augmented by a tunnel between New Malden and the Windsor line tracks.

A restored eight-track railway between Waterloo and Clapham Junction, Windsor line tracks could be reallocated – the northern pair for fast Windsor line trains, the next pair for slower Windsor trains.

Leadership plans 'utter nonsense'

Kingston MP Edward Davey has denied rumours he is "on manoeuvres" to become the next leader of the Liberal Democrats.

The energy secretary described the rumours circulating in Westminster as "utter nonsense".

He said: "I am completely supportive of Nick Clegg who is doing a very good job. He is doing really well.

"I have made it clear that these rumours are utter nonsense."

Mr Davey was touted in the national press as a potential successor to deputy prime minister Nick Clegg should he step down.

The rumours followed the release of a YouGov opinion poll for the Sunday Times that showed 47 per cent of Liberal Democrat supporters thought they could do better with someone else at the helm. It also coincided with the return of ministers to Parliament after the summer recess.

According to reports another possible contender for Lib Dem party leader should Mr Clegg be ousted, is Twickenham MP and business secretary Vince Cable, who also defended his leader.

Wheelchair user to fight seat vacated by Tory MP

by CLARE BUCHANAN

cbuchanan@london.newsquest.co.uk

A disability campaigner aims to give the major political parties a bloody nose by standing in a parliamentary byelection.

Adam Lotun, from Tolworth, will stand in the Corby and East Northamptonshire seat on November 15.

The independent candidate is director of a disability workplace company, but is also a spokesman for Disabled People Against Cuts.

The father-of-two is also a former Neighbourhood Watch co-ordinator, safer neighbourhood ward panel chairman and member of the Kingston community police partnership.

Candidate: Adam Lotun

He said: "I am standing on a number of issues, although my specialism is disability.

"I am standing because disabled people have had enough. This is no idle flash in the pan – this is serious."

As a wheelchair user Mr Lotun said his biggest challenge will be campaigning and door knocking, but he said so far the support has been extremely generous.

He said: "I never thought I would be in this position. I have done a lot of sort of political work around Kingston and online as well but I never thought I would stand as a candidate for Parliament.

"It is just fantastic the amount of support I am being given. It's just gone mad."

The election is being reported as a significant test of Government policy at the polls.

It will see Mr Lotun go head to head with Conservative candidate Christine Emmett, Labour's Andy Sawford and Jill Hope for the Liberal Democrats.

The election was called after Louise Mensch stood down as Conservative MP for the Northamptonshire constituency in August.

Mrs Mensch is moving to New York to be with her three children and husband – who is manager of the rock band Metallica.

Bowled over by success of tenpin tournaments

Tenpin bowling should be part of the Paralympics in Rio, a disabled sports organiser has said.

Sue Frett, of Special Olympics Surrey, said: "Sport always brings out the best in people whether you are disabled or able bodied.

"How good it has been to see athletes with a learning disability competing in the Paralympics in athletics, swimming and table tennis.

"I will be delighted when tenpin bowling gets to the Paralympics."

Ninety bowlers took part in a tenpin bowling tournament hosted by Special Olympics Surrey last Saturday.

The one-day sporting event was part of the borough's cultural programme for the Olympics and Paralympics.

Special Olympic teams from all over the country including Yorkshire, Wales and St Albans took part in the tournament at Charrington Bowl in Tolworth on September 1.

Gold, silver and bronze medals were all up for grabs in the categories of singles, doubles and teams.

The Surrey Special Olympics Dream Team picked up the top team prize.

Author reveals stormy affair in love letters

Details of a tempestuous 60-year relationship between a controversial author and her former lover have been revealed in a collection of letters.

Correspondence between Booker prize-winning author Iris Murdoch and philosopher Professor Philippa Foot is now available to read at Kingston University.

The missive discusses their first meeting in the early 1940s and subsequent physical relationship in the late 1960s, charting the friendship through painful emotional dilemmas.

In 1968, the year in which their relationship became more intimate, Murdoch wrote: "Sometimes I feel I have to invent a language to talk to you in, though my heart is very full of definite things to say.

"You stir some very deep part of my soul.

"Be patient with me and don't be angry with my peculiarities. I love you very much."

Dame Iris died in 1999.

An exhibition on the lives of Iris Murdoch and Philippa Foot is due to take place at Kingston Museum next May.

Keeping the Games alive

by NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

A campaign to mark Kingston's Olympic involvement has been gathering more momentum.

Businesses have responded positively to putting up a commemorative monument or plaque in Kingston to celebrate the Games.

Chessington councillor Shiraz Mirza has started a campaign to get business and groups behind a physical Olympic legacy to remember the cycle races and torch relay.

Kingston College has already got on board.

Principal Peter Mayhew-Smith said: "We are 100 per cent behind it. I think the Olympics were fantastic."

He suggested the Olympic spirit could continue with inspired students across the borough putting forward their artistic ideas in a competition.

Students at the college created their own giant Olympic torch following the relay that went past the building in July.

Kingston Council said it would not give any money but will play an "advisory" role.

A council spokesman said: "We encourage businesses to get on board with the campaign and hope for the successful installation of a monument of which the whole borough can be proud."

Enthusiastic: Kingston College made a huge torch following the cycle relay that passed the building

Other businesses that have expressed interest include Waran Solicitors, Lucy White Dry Cleaners and the Shiraz Mirza Trust.

Ahmad Nawaz Wattoo, a partner at Waran Solicitors, said: "Kingston was so heavily involved in the Games so this would be good for the community and great for the town's image."

Councillor Shiraz Mirza said he was delighted with the response from Kingston businesses and the public so far.

GCSE students celebrate receiving their results

High achievers get at least 8A*s

Ursuline students have achieved their best ever GCSE results, with 84 per cent achieving 5 A*- C grades including English and maths, and 97 per cent achieving 5A*- C.

Students did particularly well in mathematics with more than 90 per cent achieving a C and 35 per cent achieving A*/A.

The highest achievers were Emilie Cousin, Niamh Field, Michele Gestwa, Nadia Ibrahim, Tishtrya Jamooji and Elizabeth Smith, each with at least 8A* or more grades.

Rightly proud of their school

In November 2009, Esher C of E High School was proud to be judged 'outstanding' in its Ofsted inspection which commented: 'Achievement is exceptional for all groups of students; they are extremely happy and rightly proud of their school.'

This was supported by the school's SIAS (Statutory Inspection of Anglican Schools) report in April 2010.

Esher C of E High School is a Leadership Partner School and a lead school for Gifted and Talented, in addition to its Performing Arts specialism.

In September 2011, Esher C of E High School became one of only 100 schools in the country to be designated a National Teaching School by the Department for Education.

In 2012 Esher C of E High School is due to complete the build of its new state-of-the-art £2.5 million sports centre.

Headteacher Simon Morris, said: "The continued success of the school is reflected in that we were oversubscribed for the ninth consecutive year, and it is this success that we wish to build upon. We are here to provide the very best experiences for all our students."

Summer of fun

The new Year 7 pupils are settling in well at Coombe Boys' School in New Malden, many of them already feeling at home having spent some time at Coombe's annual summer school.

Teachers at Coombe Boys' added to the usual two days of summer school fun, and selected boys were treated to two weeks of activities, making their settling in period even easier.

More than 50 boys took part across the two weeks, trying their hands at a wide variety of activities, covering most subject areas at school: they honed their culinary skills with pizza making; brought home handmade door plates and photo frames; created beautiful music in a samba workshop; got in a round of golf with professional instructors; and, the highlight for many, took a guided tour around the Fulham Football Club's training grounds.

Exceptionally well led

Epsom and Ewell High School has continued to build on its huge success in recent years with another set of outstanding exam results, record numbers attending the sixth form and a lead role in supporting two other schools.

Ofsted said that Epsom and Ewell High "is a school that is exceptionally well led and has undergone a transformational journey in the last three years.

"Achievement has risen steeply and behaviour is exemplary.

"Staff and students alike can achieve outstandingly well."

The high school knows that what it has to offer your child is special, and staff look forward to welcoming you at an Open Evening on Thursday, October 4 at 6pm and to see the school at work on Monday 8 and Tuesday 9 October at 9am.

A happy, positive environment

Claremont Fan Court School is a co-educational independent school for children aged 2½-18 years old situated within 100 acres of the historic landscaped grounds of the Claremont Estate in Esher.

Its aim is to provide each pupil with a breadth of educational, cultural, social and sporting opportunities, through which the full potential of each individual may be realised.

Moral integrity and character education, together with high academic expectations, are established and developed within small classes in our happy, positive environment.

The youngest children attend the Pre-Preparatory and Nursery School which is situated in wooded grounds where children have the freedom to grow and develop in a secure and healthy environment.

We aim to ensure that the beginning of each child's education is a happy and fulfilling experience.

The Preparatory School for children aged seven to eleven years old ensures a seamless transition from the Pre-Preparatory School and a smooth onward progression to the Senior School.

Life is busy, engaging and fulfilling. An atmosphere of conviviality underpins a dynamic curriculum, which offers each child the opportunity to fulfil their unlimited potential in and out of the classroom.

The Senior School continues the ethos established in the Pre-Preparatory and Preparatory Schools of enabling all pupils to achieve their full potential in small classes.

An important element in its teaching philosophy is to understand the link between academic rigour and the value of good character.

Claremont Fan Court is a school of fine traditions and forward-looking educational thinking that prepares its girls and boys for GCSE and A-level examinations with the goal of helping them secure places at the best British and overseas universities.

All prospective families are welcome to attend the open mornings.

For further information about the school, contact Mrs Judy Tilson on 01372 473624.

Helping adults fulfil their potential

Richmond Adult Community College is an 'outstanding' (Ofsted, May 2010) college and has been providing adult education and training in Richmond borough since 1838.

It is unique in that it's the only general further education college in England that has an adult education focus and mission.

RACC is dedicated to enabling adults and young people to unlock their talent and fulfil their potential through learning, skills and enterprise.

It does this by designing and delivering courses that meet the needs, interests and abilities of adults through a flexible and supportive approach to learning that focuses on the individual.

The college offers a range of courses that can help students to return to work, retrain or gain promotion to move ahead in their career or achieve the qualifications necessary to gain entry to higher education.

RACC also offers a range of leisure courses where students can learn skills in art and design, jewellery, cookery, humanities, languages and much more.

Many of the students studying leisure courses have developed their own small businesses from the skills they have learnt.

Student work is showcased and sold within its art gallery The Parkshot Gallery, which also stocks affordable handmade work by staff and other local artists.

RACC also offers one-day training courses through its training division, Richmond Business School.

These courses are delivered by specialist trainers with industry specific experience, and are designed to help grow and develop you and your business.

Courses are in areas such as web development, marketing, finance and customer care, and can be delivered on your premises or at the business school. The college is about to embark on some exciting changes to its Parkshot site to meet the needs of its current and future students.

Plans are to create a hub of excellence for adult learning, with the best facilities and courses on offer.

New, purpose-built facilities and equipment will make the college a great place for everyone in the community to use.

Major refurbishments to existing buildings will modernise classrooms and provide a state-of-the-art learning experience.

The Parkshot building programme will be completed in the summer of 2014. Adult learning will continue at the Clifden site until then, when all current courses will move to the Parkshot site.

A permanent display of the plans will be set up at the Parkshot and Clifden campuses, so please come along to see how they will benefit you.

To find out more about the range of courses on offer and the new Parkshot campus, visit the website at www.racc.ac.uk phone 020 8843 7921 or email info@racc.ac.uk

Planning a quick GETAWAY

Chart-topping rock band the Getaway Plan will be performing outside of their native Australia for the first time this month.

The four-piece band made up of vocalist Matthew Wright, guitarist Clint Owen Ellis, bassist Dave Anderson and drummer Aaron Barnett will be playing live at the Peel in Kingston.

The Aussie group, who rose to fame across the other side of the ocean some years ago, took a break from music before coming back together to work on a new album.

They will be performing songs from the album called Requiem at the gig, where they will be supporting US band Pierce the Veil.

Band member Ellis said: "This is the first time the Getaway Plan has toured the UK, or in fact, anywhere outside Australia.

"We can't wait to immerse ourselves in a music culture that has spawned many of the most influential artists of the past and present."

The foursome came up with ideas for the album in Canada while working with Grammy award-winning producer David Bottril who has worked with artists such as Muse.

Greg's tall tales

He stole the show as a deranged bullying head of sixth form in TV comedy the Inbetweeners, writes Nazia Dewji.

Now Welsh stand up comedian Greg Davies is appearing in Kingston to subject his audience to his hilariously loud mouth twice in a month.

Davies, who is best-known for his role in the Channel Four comedy, is far from shy, posing half-naked in a top hat for his publicity shots.

He will be performing live at the Fighting Cocks pub as part of his four-month tour around the country.

In the past, the 6ft 7in comic has picked up gongs such the Laughing Horse New Comedian of the Year and has also been runner up for ITV's Take the Mic competition.

All that JAZZ

A former New Malden schoolgirl is returning to her hometown to give a performance with her American band.

Sarah Spencer's Transatlantic Band regularly tour Europe with their New Orleans style music and included New Malden in their latest gigs, which will include a concert of spirituals and gospel.

The former Burlington Infant and Tiffin Girls' School pupil moved to Connecticut 20 years ago and now calls America her "home away from home".

She said: "When I am back here I miss it there. My life is there. I love what I do.

"Because the music I play is not that popular over there actually most of my playing is in Europe."

The 45-year-old said she used to perform outside her mother's hair salon during the Malden Fortnight and said her next performance will be the first she has done in New Malden since she left.

She said: "I am excited. It's about building a gig around gospel and spirituals. It's fun.

"I'm looking forward to it. To exposing a bunch of people who don't normally go to this sort of music."

The massage therapist started playing the recorder when she was three and said she taught herself to play the clarinet aged eight before taking up her current instrument, the saxophone, when she was 13.

She started playing on the British jazz scene at 18, was the youngest visitor to play in Preservation Hall, New Orleans at 19, and at 20 formed the first of her own bands – Sarah Spencer's Rue Conti Jazz Band.

Surbiton proves popular with long-term tenants

New research from the Association of Residential Letting Agents (ARLA) shows that tenants are staying longer and their rental requirements are changing.

The average length of tenancy in the UK has now increased to a record high of 20 months, as reported by ARLA member offices in their recent survey. The increase has been attributed to the strong competition for new properties with more than half of ARLA member offices stating that there are more tenants than properties available.

The type of tenant seen by letting agents is also changing; 55 per cent of new tenants are couples or young families who are struggling to purchase their first home.

Leaders' Surbiton assistant manager, Christopher Dias said: "In Surbiton we are certainly seeing tenants renting for longer than ever before.

TAMASIN COATES
property@london.newsquest.co.uk

Tenancies of 12 months, 18 months and even more are quite common, with many tenants choosing to extend their tenancies while they save for a deposit to buy their own home, or wait for more certainty in the wider economy.

"This is good news for landlords because longer tenancies mean more stability. At the same time, the high demand for a limited supply of rented accommodation means there is virtually no risk of a well-presented, well situated property remaining empty for any significant time.

"It also means that tenants are more discerning in their choice of property, knowing they could be living there for a significant period of time. To attract tenants, properties need to be well-presented with good quality, modern fixtures and fittings and neutral décor. They also need to be well looked after during the tenancy, with any maintenance issues or problems dealt with promptly to ensure a good ongoing relationship with tenants."

With more people – young professionals, couples and families – choosing to rent for a longer time, the market is very favourable for investor landlords.

According to Leaders there are some good investment opportunities available in the sales market, however before buying a property to let it is imperative to seek advice from an experienced, impartial ARLA-registered letting specialist about where to invest, potential rental values and yields, how to prepare your property and your legal obligations as a landlord, including ensuring the safety of your tenants in the property. This will increase the likelihood of a successful and trouble-free investment.

Open house promises bargains for buyers

Andrews branches across Surrey will be giving buyers the chance to view a number of properties in one day.

Many of the homes are being offered at reduced prices.

Properties taking part can easily be spotted with balloons on Andrews For Sale boards.

Michael Robson, chief executive of Andrews said: "We are aiming to bring buyers and sellers together in a short space of time to maximise the opportunities to find the best deal for everyone."

Potential buyers and investors can register their interest, and book appointments to view a number of properties in the same day by visiting any of Andrews' branches throughout Surrey or online at andrewsonline.co.uk/lookandbook

Take advantage of servicing offers

The garage which doesn't baffle motorists with jargon

Motorists want one thing when they are looking for a garage to repair or service their vehicle – a skilled mechanic capable of doing a reliable job at a reasonable price, writes Tamasin Coates.

Those of us with a very limited knowledge of motor mechanics know that we are completely at the mercy of the mechanic when our car breaks down.

In the early days of my becoming a motorist, I relied on a series of clapped out old bangers to get me around. Needless to say they were always off the road for one repair or another.

I remember only too well the feelings of trepidation I had as the mechanic lifted the bonnet, let out a deep sigh and blinded me with science, explaining why the repair might cost more than the car was worth.

So I know just how important it is to find a good mechanic – as does Matthew Burr. He owns and runs Ridgemount Autos in Surbiton.

"We pride ourselves on our honesty and personal service," he says. "We don't baffle customers with jargon.

"We explain in plain words what needs to be done and ensure the work is the highest quality. When we carry out a service, the work is guaranteed for 12 months."

Now you can't argue with that. Nor his prices. If you have a full service on your car you can get the MOT done free. It costs £150 for the full service and MOT, £99 for an interim service and £50 for an oil change. And what's more you get a free car wash and vacuum with every service.

He also offers free collection and delivery within five miles, and same day servicing and MOTs.

Matthew, who served a three-year apprenticeship servicing and repairing cars and another three on motorbikes, set up his own business 10 years ago.

He works on all makes and models and carries out mechanical and electrical repairs on cars and light commercial vehicles.

He has the latest tools and diagnostic equipment to ensure vehicles are repaired correctly every time.

Ks miss out on league title at final hurdle

Kingstonian's cricketers missed out on the Surrey Championship Division Five title as they lost their final game of the season at Stoke D'Abernon on Saturday.

Ks, who had already secured promotion prior to the weekend, posted 239-8 thanks to 75 from Muhammad Asif Khan and 48 not out from Gohar Khan, but an unbeaten 123 from Will Gudgeon saw the hosts to a comfortable win.

Worcester Park suffered final day agony as they lost to Division Two champions Leatherhead by two wickets to miss promotion by two points.

Leatherhead were reduced to 135-7 chasing Park's 158 all out, but they got home for the win as Farnham's crushed Pyrford to leave Worcester Park to finish third.

Premier Division Malden Wanderers beat Sutton on the final day.

Twigg's in Team GB Olympic bronze medal winning hockey player Georgie Twigg heads the list of stellar arrivals at Surbiton Ladies as they prepare for their first-ever season in the Investec Women's Hockey League Premier Division, writes Colin Pike.

The 21-year-old midfielder, who scored in the 5-3 win over Korea at London 2012, will be the first current GB player to wear a Surbiton shirt after switching from Clifton.

Hannah Bowe, who played for Ireland at the Investec London Cup, makes the short trip from Slough, together with Natalie Bell, and Hannah Coulson.

Welsh international, Emma Batten also made the switch to Sugden Road, while Sarah Page and Sarah Haycroft – members of the University of Birmingham team which beat Surbiton in last season's Investec Women's Cup final – have joined new skipper Chloe Strong's side.

Surbiton open their league campaign against Reading at Sugden Road on Saturday.

Olympics will inspire Surbiton generation

by TIM ASHTON

Surbiton Hockey Club skipper Tim Deakin wants his young team to take inspiration from the Olympics and drive on to secure European qualification.

The 25-year-old, who will start his second year as captain when the season starts on Saturday, also believes the new faces at Sugden Road will complement the young players coming through the ranks to make Surbiton a force to be reckoned with in the England Hockey League Men's Premier Division.

Surbiton finished fifth last year, but Deakin claimed they can win the league – be it this year or next – and he puts it all down to the new head coach Todd Williams.

Deakin said: "Pre-season has been going brilliantly – every time there is a change of coach people feel as though they need to up their game.

"Todd has introduced a new style of play and both in training and matches we have been putting this into practice.

"Todd is a forward-thinking coach who is constantly studying the game. He has brought a clear direction to the group and everyone is looking forward to working under him.

"A successful season would be to qualify for Europe, but without doubt we have a group of players who want to win the league and we have the squad that can do it.

"Whether that happens this year with a new coaching system or next, it is our ultimate target, but there is no pressure to achieve this straight away."

With James Tindall and Rob Moore set to return from their Olympic duties, Deakin believes the club's young players have started to believe they have the ability to be the next generation of Great Britain players.

Deakin added: "The Olympics has truly inspired a generation and that will benefit our sport greatly.

"Ultimately I hope that it will prove to be a driving force for our youngsters to strive towards.

"We have some great potential in our squad and there is no reason why players such as Ben Tibble, James Royce, Adam White, Jonny Ruiz and Jonny Gall can't be the next generation to represent our country at the Olympics.

"They will also benefit from some of the new faces that have been brought in here, such as James Royce, Rob Schilling, David Kettle and Tom Merchant.

"They have been bedding in very well, while the young players have been playing with a style and composure beyond their years."

Surbiton face the toughest of starts on Saturday when they travel to East Grinstead, who finished top of the Premier Division last year, only to lose the end-of-season play-off match.

However, with such a big squad at their disposal, Deakin wants a good season.

He said: "Competition for places can only be a good thing in terms of getting the best out of every single member of the squad.

"You do not win the league or get into Europe with 16 players, you do it with 25 players."

Back on it: Craig Mullen scored two on Saturday

Mullen is star for Ks

Kingstonian striker Craig Mullen struck twice as boss Alan Dowson's men reached the FA Cup second qualifying on Saturday.

The 21-year-old youth team graduate netted either side of a Matt Pattison strike as Ks won 3-0 at Guildford City on Saturday to set up a tie with East Thurrock United next weekend.

"I'm delighted for Craig. He has had to bide his time, but he has come back to us a better player," said Dowson.

Home advantage key to Weir's glorious summer

David Weir completed a remarkable London 2012 Paralympic Games by winning his fourth gold medal from four events before admitting it had all been made in Richmond Park.

The Kingston AC & Polytechnic Harriers athlete's marathon heroics on Sunday took Britain's medal tally for the Games to 120 – 34 golds, 43 silvers and 43 bronzes – a fact celebrated with the athletes parade in London on Monday.

Wallington's Weir, who had already collected golds in the T54 800m, 1,500m and 5,000m, rounded off his campaign with a sprint finish to come home in one hour, 30 minutes, 20 seconds to beat Switzerland's Marcel Hug and Australian defending champion Kurt Fearnley into second and third respectively.

"That was the toughest race I've ever raced. I was absolutely dying in the first five miles," he said.

"I had an energy shot just to keep going. That was meant for about 16 miles, not the first five miles.

"The crowd were just awesome, I've never seen that before for the whole race. When I couldn't feel my push rims, they were getting me through. My whole body was tingling.

"I knew on the final stretch I had to dig deep. I didn't know where the finishing line was, so I carried on pushing. I sprinted as hard as I could. I thought I went too early, but my arms didn't feel tired.

"I knew I had lots of top speed. I knew on the final stretch I had to keep doing what I do in Richmond Park with the cyclists when I do a mile in under three minutes."

Weir, who trains at Kingsmeadow, admitted the four gold bid had been a step into the unknown.

"I trained for all four events, but you can't train for the emotions. I didn't know how my body would feel. I've never done so many races before," he added.

"I'm honoured Paralympic sport got the recognition it should. We're superhumans and phenomenal athletes."
